FIGHTING TO END CORRUPTION & ENSURE FREE AND FAIR ELECTIONS

Rick --

Congress continues to give themselves tax breaks while the rest of us struggle. We're in a living nightmare where no matter how fast we run from corruption, it catches up to us.

The median net worth of lawmakers was just over $1 million in 2015, which is 1,200 percent more than the typical American household. In the Senate alone, net worth is a hefty $3.2 million.

That means lawmakers are part of the donor class they reward. When they passed the recent tax bill, virtually ALL of the benefits went to the wealthiest in society -- leaving very little for you and me. It's the nightmare that doesn't end.

While average Americans work hard to make ends meet, Congress is more focused on rewarding themselves and their donors.

Today, the lives of Congress members and their friends bear little resemblance to the lives of the governed. That's a recipe for trouble. . .

Out-of-touch Congress members increasingly do not reflect the interests of the public. But we can change that. Chip in \$27, and help Wolf-PAC do much-needed work as we enter the midterm election homestretch.

If it looks like Congress only cares about a handful of people (like their dark money donors), you'd be right. They can pass tax cuts, but little else.

If we don't challenge the status quo this November, we'll continue to be plagued by an unresponsive government.

Can we count on your gift of \$27 as we head into election season? Wolf-PAC supports a U.S. Constitutional amendment to get money out of politics forever.
